DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Admitted Prior Art Figures 1 and 2 in view of Brito (US 5,136,639).

Regarding claim 1, Admitted Prior Art figures 1 & 2 teach a headphone device (a)-comprising: an ear pad (e) worn on the exterior of the ear on the head (o) of a user and including a cushion (i) and a facing (j) that covers said cushion; and a housing (d) provided with a speaker unit and formed with a groove shaped fitting portion (h) adapted to hold a portion of said facing (l) for attaching said ear pad (e) to said housing (d) via the facing, wherein said ear pad is detachable from said housing (via l and h) and the facing is detachable from said housing (via l and h). The Applicant's Admitted Prior Art does not teach that the facing is removable and detachable from the cushion.

In figure 10, Brito (US 5,136,639) teaches an ear pad comprising a cushion (16) and covering (38). In lines 15-16 of the Abstract and in column 5, lines 52-65, Brito teaches that a variety of coverings (38) may be placed upon the cushion (16) for the purpose of facilitating easier cleaning of the covering, for the purpose of disposal and subsequent replacement with a new covering, OR for the purpose of exchange for another covering having a more distinctive or complementary appearance. In column 5 lines 52-60, specifically lines 57-60, Brito teaches that the covering for the cushion may be disposable, hence reading on "facing is detachable from said cushion" as claimed.

Furthermore, in column 5, lines 60 to column 6, line 31, Brito teaches a variety of mounting arrangements for attaching the cushion (16) and covering (38) to the telephone receiver. Brito teaches that the cushion w/ covering may be mounted by glue, double faced tape, a snapping arrangement, an elastic strap, belt-type buckle arrangement, Velcro- hook-n-loop fastening mechanism and more. More than one of the above mounting arrangements will facilitate a detachable mounting of the ear cushion (16) and covering (38) to the telephone receiver so as to permit the user to remove the covering (38) for disposal, cleaning or exchange, thereby reading on "said removable facing is detachable from said cushion", as claimed..

It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to combine the teachings of The Admitted Prior Art Figures 1-2 and Brito, thereby providing a replaceable facing, for the reasons previously mentioned.

Regarding claim 2, Figures 1-2 of the Admitted Prior Art teaches a headphone wherein an external shape of the cushion of said ear pad is circular.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 03/07/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Art Unit: 2643

Regarding the Applicant's argument that "Brito Fails To Show Or Suggest A Removable Facing Being Detachable From The Cushion Of The Ear pad."

The Applicant cites col. 5, line 50 to col. 6, line 24 of Brito, as proof that "... Brito fails to show or suggest a removable facing being detachable from the cushion of the ear pad."

However, in column 5, lines 58-59, Brito teaches that the covering 38 of figure 10, may be "disposable", inherently teaching that the covering is removable and detachable, thereby facilitating its' disposal. Note, that Brito does not specifically teach that the cushion is disposable, but he does clearly and specifically teach that the covering of the cushion may be disposed of, so as to enhance the cushion's sanitary usefulness. Also, see the 'Abstract' portion of the Brito reference, wherein Brito teaches "a variety of coverings can be placed over the cushion for aesthetic or functional purposes." The Examiner's rejection is therefore maintained.
